Stamford Apple Day October 6th 2007. Held in the Arts Centre.

This year, we were joined once again by East of England Apple Project (EEAOP) who were there to identify and advise on the various apples brought from residents own gardens. EEAOP brought along at least 140 varieties of known apples for display and discussion. We hope that we may have discovered some of the lost varieties of apple that were attributed to the Stamford area.

The entries in the poster competition, from the local primary schools, were very competitive and we were pleased to welcome the Deputy Mayor, Maureen Jalili, who presented the prize winners with a certificate and book token. Well done to all the children who participated. The local Mercury carried a good spread of pictures on the event.

The various Stalls were of interest to all - we had bee/honey produce, New College Stamford, Apple Juice sales, Apple Produce, Bag painting, Children's Games, Tombola, Apple Tastings, Apple Display (Lord
